1. INTRODUCTION

‘KNOW YOUR CUSTOMER’

The Reserve Bank of India has issued comprehensive guidelines on ‘Know Your Customer’ (KYC) norms and Anti-money Laundering (AML) standards and has advised all Non-Banking Financial Companies (NBFCs) to ensure that a proper policy framework on KYC and AML measures be formulated and put in place with the approval of the Board.

Accordingly, in compliance with the guidelines issued by RBI from time to time, the following KYC & AML policy is approved by the Board of Directors of NRFSI (hereafter “NRFSI” or “the Company”).

This policy is applicable to all categories of products and services offered by the Company.

2. OBJECTIVE

Objective of RBI guidelines is to prevent NBFCs being used, intentionally or unintentionally by criminal elements for money laundering activities. The guidelines also mandates making reasonable efforts to determine the true identity and beneficial ownership of accounts, source of funds, the nature of customer’s business, reasonableness of operations in the account in relation to the customer’s business, etc. which in turn helps the Company to manage its risks prudently. Accordingly, the main objective of this policy is to enable the Company to have positive identification of its customers.

Key considerations:

- Risk categorisation shall be undertaken based on parameters such as customer’s identity, social/financial status, nature of business activity, information about the clients’ business and their location etc. While considering customer’s identity, the ability to confirm identity documents through online or other services offered by issuing authorities may also be factored in to enable categorization of customers into low, medium and high risk. The illustrative list of such risk categorisation is provided in Annexure – I.
- The customer profile contains information relating to customer’s identity, social/financial status, nature of business activity, information about his clients’ business and their location etc. The nature and extent of due diligence will depend on the risk perceived by the Company. The customer profile will be a confidential document and details contained therein will not be divulged for cross selling or any other purpose.
- The intent of the Policy is not to result in denial of financial services to general public, especially to those, who are financially or socially disadvantaged. While carrying out due diligence, the Company will ensure that the procedure adopted does not result in denial of services to any genuine customers.
- The Company shall carry out full scale customer due diligence (CDD) before opening an account. When the true identity of the account holder is not known, the Company shall file Suspicious Transaction Reporting (STR) as provided below in clause 9.

The Company shall obtain sufficient information necessary to establish, to its satisfaction, the identity of each customer and the purpose of the intended nature of business relationship.

An effective Customer Identification Program (CIP) is an important part of the effort by the Company to know its customers. The Company’s CIP is integrated into the AML (Anti Money Laundering) program for the company in terms of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 and the relevant rules notified there under (PMLA), which contains provisions requiring the business processes to:

1. verify the identity of any Person transacting with the Company to the extent reasonable and practicable;

3. consult lists of known or suspected terrorists or terrorist organizations provided to the Company by any applicable government agency to determine whether a person opening an account or an existing customer appears on any such list.

The Company will perform appropriate, specific and where necessary, Enhanced Due Diligence on its customers that is reasonably designed to know and verify the true identity of its customers and to detect and report instances of criminal activity, including money laundering or terrorist financing. The procedures, documentation, types of information obtained and levels of KYC due diligence to be performed will be based on the level of risk associated with the relationship (products, services, business processes, geographic locations) between the Company and the customer and the risk profile of the customer.

5.1 Required “KYC” due diligence for all customers

The Company shall take reasonable measures to ascertain and verify the true identity of all customers who transact with the Company. Each business process shall design and implement specific due diligence standards and procedures that are appropriate given the nature of the respective businesses, customers and the associated risks. Such standards and procedures shall include, at a minimum, the following elements.

For the purpose of identifying and verifying the identity of customers at the time of commencement of an account-based relationship, NRFSI may rely on a third party; subject to the conditions that-

- i. The company immediately obtains necessary information of such client due diligence carried out by the third party;

- iii. The company is satisfied that such third party is regulated, supervised or monitored for, and has measures in place for compliance with client due diligence and record-keeping requirements in line with the requirements and obligations under the Act;

- v. The company is ultimately responsible for client due diligence and undertaking enhanced due diligence measures, as applicable.

7. RISK CATEGORISATION

The Company shall put in place a system of periodical review of risk categorization of accounts and the need for applying enhanced due diligence measures in case of higher risk perception on a customer. Such review of risk categorization and due diligence of customers will be carried out on-going basis with respect to the business relationship with every client and closely examine the transactions in order to ensure that they are consistent with their knowledge of the client, his business and risk profile and, wherever necessary, the source of funds.

The periodicity of such updation shall be not less than once in ten years in case of low risk category customers and not less than once in eight years in case of medium risk category customers and not less than once in two years in case of high risk category customers.

All the customers under different product categories are categorized into low, medium and high risk based on their profile. An indicative categorization for the guidance of businesses is provided in Annexure - I.

Each business process adopts the risk categorization in their respective credit policies subject to confirmation by compliance based on the credit appraisal, customer's background, nature and location of activity, country of origin, sources of funds, client profile, etc. Where businesses believe that a particular customer falling under a category mentioned below is in his judgement falling in a different category, they may categorise the customer so, so long as appropriate justification is provided in the customer file.

8. MONITORING OF TRANSACTIONS

Ongoing monitoring is an essential element of effective KYC procedures. The Company can effectively control and reduce the risk only if it has an understanding of the normal and reasonable activity of the customer so that they have the means of identifying transactions that fall outside the regular pattern of activity. However, the extent of monitoring will depend on the risk sensitivity of the account. The different business divisions should pay special attention to all complex, unusually large transactions and all unusual patterns which have no apparent economic or visible lawful purpose. High-risk accounts have to be subjected to intensify monitoring.

The company caters to two segments of customers, the retail segment where the monthly payment is through ECS, PDC or ACH on the due dates agreed with the customer during the acquisition / disbursal process. In case of frequent defaults and subsequent payment in cash, these accounts can be flagged off on the system as low, medium or high risk.

The second segment is whole sale finance to dealerships; the credit period offered in wholesale finance is of a shorter duration. The model requires dealerships to pay as they sell within the credit period extended. Once the credit period lapses the dealership is to make the payment through a wire transfer or a cheque on the outstanding amount that's raised by the company in the form of a payment advice. Dealerships that frequently miss paying on due dates or repeatedly defaulting on payments will have an impact on their credit ratings which can affect their credit line requirements.

9. RISK MANAGEMENT

NRFSI has put in place appropriate procedures to ensure effective implementation of KYC guidelines. The implementation procedure covers proper management oversight, systems and controls, segregation of duties, training and other related matters.

NRFSI Risk management team from time to time will carry on the necessary quality checks and file audits to ensure that the KYC policies and Procedures are adhered to from time to time.

The Risk Management team shall also from time to time also update the Board any lapses if identified during the customer acquisition process.
